The biennial Taroona Seaside Festival organised by the Primary School Association is coming up on 11 November. This is an event not to be missed! It highlights the wealth of talent in our community. Munch on delicious food accompanied by fine music. Buy plants, a good book or second hand goods, and learn about our local environment. Catch up with neighbours and friends, whilst also raising funds for the local school. Who could resist?!

Be aware and be prepared for the summer fire season

The hills behind Taroona are covered in native forest which form a beautiful and characteristic landscape combined with the Alum Cliffs and beaches, but also one that has an inherent, annual risk of burning in a wildfire. Taroona also has only one road in and out – the Channel Highway.

Living in a bush fire prone suburb, residents must take precautionary measures to prepare for the summer fire season. This issue of Taroona News provides lots of information about how you can prepare, the local Taroona Volunteer Fire Brigade, the nature of this coming fire season, and a recent and a forthcoming information session about what to do. One in three residents are now newbies to Taroona – that's a 33 per cent turnover of our population. Many of these new residents may not be aware of the need to annually prepare for the fire season, so this is a good opportunity to find out more.

The next fire season information session will be held on Sunday, 26 November at 1pm at the local bowls club. Participants will then be all "fired up" and ready attend the TCA AGM at 2pm at the same location.

Traffic, pedestrian safety and road management

The TCA recently conducted an informal survey of the local community regarding traffic, pedestrian safety and road management issues using the Taroona Good Karma Network Facebook site. The issue arose as we received a couple of complaints about traffic speeds in local streets.

The survey generated an overwhelming response, with the general concerns being traffic speeds, poor sight lines along the highway when cars and pedestrians enter from various feeder streets, parking issues and poor footpaths. Specific areas of concern noted include:

Channel Highway - The inability to walk along the western side of the highway or easily cross at key locations.

Nubeena Crescent - traffic volumes and speed increasing with the growth of the UTas IMAS Taroona precinct, and the enhancement of Kelvedon Oval facilities.

Meath Avenue – lack of footpath particularly near the highway, and poor sight lines;

Jenkins Street - street parking restricting access;

Baringa Road and other streets - parking too close to the highway intersection compromising access

Channel Highway at Morris Avenue – the road fence impeding sight lines for children crossing the highway.

We were delighted with the quick response of council last year when the TCA advocated for a safer design around bus stop 30 on the corner of Channel Highway and Orana Place; the result is a vast improvement in safe access for pedestrians to that bus stop.

The TCA met with council officers again, seeking action around all the matter listed above. We will keep you informed of progress.

Happy spring reading!

Jill Hickie, President, TCA

Taroona Scout Group: Christmas tree sale

Believe it or not Christmas is only ten weeks away. Early preparation helps us enjoy the festivities. A vital part of the Taroona Scout Group's involvement with the local community is its fund-raising activities. These interactions have, over the years, contributed many thousands of dollars which have enabled the purchase of equipment that has assisted our leaders to deliver a first class Scouting experience.

The annual Scout Christmas tree and produce sale has become a legendary event with huge community support and expectations. This year's sale is planned for Saturday 16th December – see you there and be sure to get in early for the best trees.

Joey's, Cubs, Scouts and Venturers have all been active in the last term. Joey's attended a state-wide active day at Ross as well as meeting with other Joey mobs for campfires and learning about other cultures. They have also had a sleepover which was enjoyed by all. It is the biggest Joey mob in the state and there is a waiting list, thanks to the varied program and great leaders.

Cubs have been busy preparing for the exciting Cuboree. This is a state-wide camp similar to a local Jamboree where the cubs participate in many outdoor activities. Hundreds of cubs attend. Among the other things the cubs have done are flag making, building outdoor shelters, campfire cooking, and a visit to the Scout Heritage Centre. Several cubs hope to have completed the top award for cubs, the Grey Wolf, by the end of the year.

The scouts have also been out and about – including running an Amazing Race and participating in the Kingborough District Camping competition, where they did well. These holidays many have planned overnight expeditions to the south coast and Coles Bay, which can go towards the award of Australian Scout medallion.

The venturers have enjoyed the regional venturer Amazing Race, competing against all the other venturer units in the region. Some of the fun included taking part in an eating competition, a Harry Potter night, a colour run and a Coke chase, which the Taroona venturers won. We ended the term with a Chalk Chase through the streets of Sandy Bay and Battery Point (a Hash House harrier type event) which concluded at a pizza place in Salamanca to celebrate the birthday of one of the leaders.

As one of the largest groups in the state, we are pleased to have a great team of leaders who give their time voluntarily each week to develop the youth in our suburb. We also value all the support given to the group by the parents who help each week.

The Taroona Scout Group will have a display at the Seaside Festival – come and see what we do. If you would like any information about the Group or are interested in youth membership or a leader role please contact either Mike Green on 6227 9139 or Janet Stephens on 0400 297 646.

Taroona Coastal Rowing

As winter finally shakes free from spring, eyes begin to drift to the river Derwent, its wind and swells, and a longing rises to feel once more the strain at the oar and the sweet music of the bow chattering with wave. This last winter has been a little tougher than most, but a fine rowing season approaches. Out of your armchair and get involved, see some of Tasmania's best coastal scenery and meet some interesting people from your own back yard!

International Oar Design Rules Resolved

To our great relief, the Scottish Coastal Rowing Association has now resolved its quest to standardise wooden oars for the St Ayles Skiff. In summary, a standardised oar design was not recommended due to a variety of reasons, including strength differences between crews, ease of handling in variable weather conditions and most likely because the design horse bolted way back in 2009, when the class was created. Those amused by the topic will enjoy more at <https://scottishcoastalrowing.org/2017/10/11/no-motion-for-standard-oar-at-scr-a-gm-2017> For Taroona, our recently built hollow loomed hoop pine oars are still competition compliant with the new ruling. They were a significant design challenge that our team of volunteers accepted, producing a beautiful functional design that works well. Many thanks to Bob and Sue for loaning us their shed and Richard Johnson for his design oversight and wisdom. And thanks also to our own team of dreamers, artists and craftspeople who got the job done...just in time for the international skiff titles at Franklin in February.

Coming Events

Steam boats on the Huon, Sunday 19 November

This is an enjoyable row in the company of other skiffs from Franklin and Cygnet with a fleet of steam powered and other craft from Huonville to Franklin and return. (toot, toot!)

Swiftsure Regatta, Saturday 9 December

Another chance to cop a flogging in skiff races from the gritty folk of Franklin. Actually a lot of fun, and Taroona have done well here in the past.

News from the Taroona Volunteer Fire Brigade

Early summer bushfire outlook

You just have to look across to the eastern shore to see how dry the vegetation is for this time of the year. The current soil dryness index in the eastern part of the state is what we normally expect in January (Figures 1 and 2).

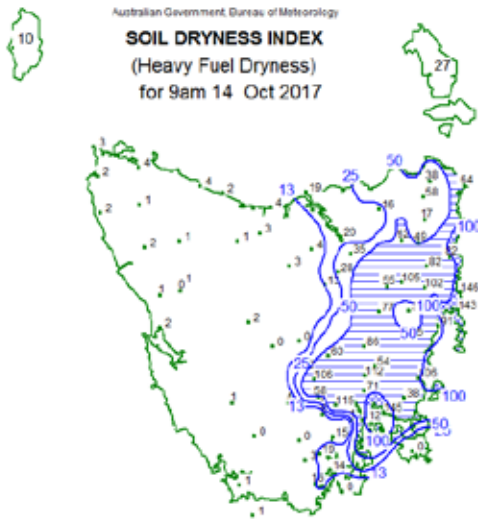

Figure 1 Soil conditions are already extremely dry across eastern Tasmania. These conditions are normally prevalent in late summer!

We can expect an early start to the fire season. Fire permits will kick in much sooner than normal. This also means a much shorter window of opportunity for fuel reduction burns in and around Hobart. To make matters worse, the seasonal forecast is predicting above average maximum temperatures for Tasmania between November and January. There is a small chance we will have above average rainfall over this same period (see Figures 3 and 4).

Last fire season was pretty quiet. We had above average rainfall and very few hot northerly winds. We may not be so lucky this summer. Hot northerly winds, coupled with very dry soils and above average temperatures more generally, could spell serious trouble.

The message from Taroona Volunteer Fire Brigade is simple: Do not delay in clearing gutters of leaf litter, cut back trees that encroach onto your house, and remove piles of dry vegetation (see more detailed information in the TEN article, Flirting With Fire, on page 6).

Remind yourself about your bushfire survival plan. Check where your nearby safer places are: http://www.fire.tas.gov.au/userfiles/tym/file/NEW\_CPP\_PAGES/201212\_S\_Protection\_Taroona\_area.pdf.

The only way out of Taroona is via the Channel Highway. With so few escape options, you should plan to leave early if a major bushfire threatens Taroona.

Bookmark this page to check current fire danger index: <http://www.bom.gov.au/tas/forecasts/fire-map.shtml>. Use this and alerts issued by the Tasmania Fire Service (<http://www.fire.tas.gov.au>) to assess whether you need to invoke your bushfire survival plan or not.

FLIRTING WITH FIRE

Can we safely live in a fire-prone environment?

On a beautiful sunny morning in October local residents gathered for the Taroona Environment Network's "Flirting with Fire" walkabout in Harrow Place. Recognising that we have chosen to live in a suburb on the fringes of the bush – in a bushfire-prone area – participants were interested to learn what they could do to reduce this risk.

Dr Stephen Bresnehan, Community Engagement Officer with Tas Fire Service Fuel Reduction Unit, outlined what we can do at a local level to prepare for the fire season, and briefed us on the broader fuel reduction program in the hills behind Hobart. We also heard from Stephen Watchorn, First Officer with the Taroona Fire Brigade on their training and preparation.

Key messages included:

- Prepare a Bushfire Survival Plan.
- Decide whether you will stay and defend your home, or leave early, taking into account your health, fitness and caring responsibilities.
Writing down the plan in advance is helpful because it's much harder to make good decisions when a bushfire is approaching.
- Leave early to avoid traffic snarls and poor visibility.
- Be aware of vulnerable neighbours who may need help.
- Prepare your home ready for the fire season: check for loose tiles or roofing iron where embers may penetrate; clear gutters; remove flammable vegetation and materials stored adjacent to the house; ensure there are no overhanging branches.

- Careful garden design can create a firebreak – a space between your house and neighbouring bushland cleared of leaves, bark, mulch and other fuels
- Have a battery-operated radio to stay informed if electricity and mobile reception is cut off.
- Fire can travel at great speed, so preparation is vital. Local fire brigades will not be able to attend every house on a bad bushfire day, and may be deployed in a strike team elsewhere.

Many participants suggested that the provision of regular green waste collections would be very helpful in reducing fuels on our properties.

TEN would like to thank Stephen Bresnehan and Stephen Watchorn for giving up their Sunday morning to lead us through these vital issues.

The location of the driveway, low-flammability plant selection including fruit trees, lawn, yellow dogwoods, and a veggie garden plus reasonable separation (>30m) from the highly flammable native forest to the northwest have helped reduce the fire risk to this Taroona property.

FINAL WORKING BEE FOR 2017

Nov 5 Propagation day – learn about growing native plants. Taroona Park, 10am–12 noon.
Meet at the Scout Hall

TALKING POINT

Cats and wildlife – how to protect both

Cats make wonderful pets but, WHEN ALLOWED TO ROAM, they do immense damage to our native wildlife. In a newly-published study, scientists from Charles Darwin University estimate that:

Cats in Australia kill 377 million birds EVERY YEAR – that's 3-4% of our total Australian bird population every year, equivalent to 1 million birds a day!!.

This includes 61 million birds per year killed by pet cats, which make up half the population of cats in Australia (<http://theconversation.com/for-whom-the-bell-tolls-cats-kill-more-than-a-million-australian-birds-every-day-85084>). This is clearly not sustainable, especially given the number of threatened species affected.

And that's just birds. In my own garden (planted to attract wildlife), neighbourhood pet cats have decimated all skinks, blue-tongue lizards, frogs, insects, bandicoots and ring-tailed possums etc., as well as blue fairy wrens, honeyeaters, pardalotes and robins – and the list goes on. And this is just my garden. This is also the nesting season for birds, and cat disturbance greatly jeopardises breeding success.

WE CAN ALL DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS. Please keep your cat(s) from roaming AT ALL TIMES (both day and night).

Many pet owners already do this successfully, and their cats are safer and live longer.

You may consider that your cat does not kill wildlife. But did you know that:

- Even well-fed cats instinctively hunt and kill wildlife,
- Few creatures bitten by cats survive,
- Only a small proportion of killings or predations are brought home.
- Bells do not work.

And uncontrolled pet cats can roam large distances to hunt, or hunt locally in a very systematic fashion.

There are useful and practical information resources on how to keep your cat(s) indoors or in your yard, how to help your cat(s) adjust to not roaming, and how to build or obtain excellent cat enclosures that don't cost a fortune on the Kingborough Council website at: <https://kingborough.tas.gov.au/services/animal-management/cats/>. This includes information sheets on: Keeping Cats Indoors Doesn't Have to be Cruel; How Can You Keep Your Cat in Your Yard; and Preventing Cats From Roaming – Frequently Asked Questions.

LET'S MAKE TAROONA A 'ROAMING CAT-FREE ZONE'! The effect on our precious and unique wildlife – in our wonderful bushland setting – will be remarkable!!

Please share this information with your neighbours and friends as they may be unaware of the serious impact of roaming cats on our wildlife. – Rob Massom, Taroona

Associate Professor Greg Smith, UTAS Deputy Vice Chancellor Brigid Heywood, PFG Chief Executive Michael Sylvester and Dr Darren Cundy announce the deal to hatch a new rock lobster industry

Deal struck to commercialise IMAS world-first lobster research

Despite the high value of rock lobsters, until now the long and complex life cycle has made it impossible to farm the species in a commercially scalable hatchery.

Ground-breaking research by IMAS, supported by the ARC Research Hub for Commercial Development of Rock Lobster Culture Systems, stands ready to change that. Over 15 years of research has finally unlocked an abiding aquaculture challenge – a way of rearing batches of tropical rock lobsters from eggs to maturity in special tanks.

A Tasmanian firm with a world-class pedigree in the mariculture sector is partnering with the University of Tasmania to commercialise this research. PFG Group Pty Ltd (PFG) has invested in a University spin-out company to secure the Australian licencing rights to the research.

“This partnership paves the way for Tasmania to become the birthplace of a global industry for rock lobster aquaculture.” – University Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research) Professor Brigid Heywood

In the next two years, scientists working at IMAS Taroona will complete the final two years' work of the Australian Research Council-backed hub, focusing on the optimisation of technology that will underpin commercial production. PFG's commitment includes the construction in Tasmania of the world's first commercial scale hatchery.

Taroona's IMAS research facility has a long pedigree of creating new aquaculture industries. About 30 years ago, it made the breakthroughs that gave rise to Atlantic salmon farming, now the nation's highest-value fishery.

IMAS Divers Practice Rescue Drills on Taroona Beach

As part of regular training and proficiency for their work, scientific divers from IMAS may sometimes be seen on Taroona Beach practicing rescue drills. Though diving incidents are rare, we must be prepared to respond immediately to a diver in difficulty, and all of our divers are required to show their proficiency with these skills on an annual basis.

These drills often include practice towing a simulated injured diver on the surface, responding to a diver underwater and bringing them to the surface, removing a diver from the water, and providing first aid. On occasion we may use one of our small research vessels as a platform for practicing rescues, but we regularly do these as shore dives.

So the next time you are walking at Taroona Beach and see divers getting dragged onto the shore, feel free to ask if it is a drill or an actual emergency. We are proud to be part of the Taroona community, and are happy to share with you what we are doing!

– Vallorie Hodges, Site Diving and Technical Officer, IMAS

Snake alert: Taroona Park

WARNING to Taroona Park users. A snake has been sighted near the playground and the skate park area this past week (see photos above). A timely reminder to keep a look out for snakes now that the weather is warming.

Taroona Tennis Club

Members of the Taroona community will have noticed that a great deal of work has been taking place at the Taroona Tennis Club during the last twelve months. There have been two major projects and one minor project.

The committee decided that the old and worn surfaces of courts 1, 2 and 3 needed to be replaced.

Court lighting had to be replaced. While the courts were being resurfaced the quality of the lights poles was tested and the poles were found to be unsafe and were quickly removed.

Net posts on courts 1, 2 and 3 also had to be replaced.

The total cost of work undertaken has approached $190,000. The committee put a great deal of work into securing funds for the projects and was successful in securing the following grants:

2016 Communities Sport and Recreation Major Grant of $52,057 to be used to replace surfaces of courts 1, 2 and 3. Kingborough Council supplied $17,100 towards the same project.

2016 Communities, Sport and Recreation Minor Grant of $2,474 to be used to replace net posts on courts 1, 2 and 3.

2017 Community Infrastructure Minor Grant of $50,000 to be used for court lighting.

2017 Tasmanian Community Fund Grant of $10,115 to be used for court lighting.

The Taroona Tennis Club financial year starts on 1 October and the AGM of the Taroona Tennis Club is to be held at the clubhouse on Saturday November 11th at 4.00pm. This might be a good time to think about joining the Club. Social tennis, competitive tennis and coaching are offered. Diane Balding – phone 62279232 – is happy to answer any questions.

The Taroona Garden Forum meets at 7.30pm on the first Wednesday each month (except January and July) at the Uniting Church, 1 Taroona Crescent, Taroona. Our next meetings will be on Wednesday 1 November, 6 December and 7 February.

We share knowledge about plants, soils and gardening, regularly have guest speakers and presentations and usually have plants and gardening items for sale. Highlights of the year are the organised trips and July and December lunches.

At the August meeting of the Taroona Gardening Forum, David Stephen was acknowledged for his long service to the group. David is a well-known organic gardening enthusiast who, with three others, co-founded the Taroona Gardening Forum 17 years ago. Over the years David has generously shared his knowledge and experience with members and regularly contributes ideas and tips about organic gardening, as well as inviting the group to his own garden for demonstrations of methods and materials.

David Stephen is presented with a certificate and gift by Anne Hallam, Taroona Gardening Forum convenor, in recognition of his long and dedicated service to the group.
